

Cabernet Sauvignon

Grape variety : Cabernet Sauvignon is the grape variety used in many prestigious wines, producing a characterful wine hallmarked by its superb subtlety of aroma. Soil : Firm, chalky-clay earth. On this estate, Cabernet Sauvignon yields 50 hl/ha.

Vinification : Grapes are picked using mechanical harvesters, thus facilitating picking at precisely the correct time. The level of maturity and natural acidity in the berries is of crucial importance in determining the style of wine produced. Vinification is carried out at a strictly controlled temperature in order to preserve the aroma and balance of the wine.

Instructions: Decant into coldish jug and serve at about 18 degrees centigrade. The Cabernet Sauvignon goes well with all meats and sauces-particularly with game.
